Prompt 1

What have you packed away because you could not see the next step? Before you call it a failure, ask what it taught you.

[Space for writing]

Prompt 2

Is there something you're pushing against right now that might be asking you to look in another direction? What might that direction be?

[Space for writing]

Prompt 3

Karen says "Sometimes life is less interested in the thing you are building than the builder you are becoming." What builder are you becoming through your current struggles?

[Space for writing]

Prompt 4

"Not everything has to become a business. Sometimes things are allowed to exist simply because they brought joy." What in your life have you been pressuring to be "productive" that could just be joyful?

[Space for writing]

Prompt 5

Is there a dream waiting for a different season? What would need to change (in you, in your circumstances, in the world) for that season to arrive?
